ON THE MAP

When Carole Marcotte decided to open her own furniture and housewares store after years as an interior designer, she knew she wanted to put her store on the map. But there wasn't a map that did what she wanted a map to do: Show Raleighites the thriving corridor of design businesses she knew was here, and that she planned to join.

So she made one herself and launched both on the same day in May: Form and Function, her new store on Bernard Street, and Design District Raleigh, which charts the locations of 26 design, interiors, antiques, and gift shops that stretch from Furbish on West Johnson Street to Samuel Craig Antiques on Progress Court.

For more information and to see the map in detail, go to DesignDistrictRaleigh.com. Maps are also available free at each of the businesses listed.
